MUST PAY FITZSIMMONS. Philadelphia Club Must Give Up $1,904 Before It Can Reopen. Philadelphia, Aug. 22 .- Before the Washington Sporting Club can reopen for the season it must make good $1,904, the amount due Bob Fitzsimmons as his share of the receipts of the recent Jack Johnson bout. Such is the edict from the power behind the throne at the city 101 hall. While the administration is friendly toward boxing, it will not allow the public and principals to be defrauded in the same breath Bob Fitzsimmons met Jack Johnson Wednesday night, July 17, in the arena of the club. The Cornishman was suffer-Fitzsimmons fulfilled his part of the contract, even confessing that he had an injured arm. He, however, told the crowd hat he was willing to take a chance with the burly negro, and subsequently was "knocked out" in the second round. The club paid Johnson his share of the receipts and even went so far as to dismiss a constable with a $50 note, who had a warrant to arrest the negro before the bout on the charge of larceny as bailee. George Considine, of New York, who had advanced Fitzsimmons money from time to time, held an attachment against the Cornishman's share of the receipts. The club officials snapped their fingers in Considine's face when he requested a settle Both he and Fitzsimmons have they appealed to the good sportsmanship of the Philadelphia promoters without re-
